Hello Artists,

It is time for our annual Fall Show, a wonderful opportunity to display your work in front of the community and fellow BAA members. This year's judge will be Sharon Siegel. Her work has appeared in Fine Gardening and National Gardening magazines, and books by Bantam, PocketBook, Viking and McDougal/Littel. I look forward to hearing her comments at the reception November 14th.

The BAA is dedicated to helping artists find venues to display their work. Thank you to those who have helped fill our venues so far this year. If you would like more help with marketing yourself as an artist please reach out to the association.

A vote was taken at the October monthly meeting to establish a yearly student membership rate of $10. This will be offered to middle school students grade 6 and up. I am looking forward to the opportunities that grow from this and what it means for our community relations.

The year is in full swing, and the seasons are changing. I am reminded of Peg Foley's words, as they are fresh in my mind as I write this, that all art begins with an emotion, a feeling of some sort, whether it is joy, anger, love or grief. Peg will be this year's annual Fall Workshop facilitator, please consider attending November 10th.

Holiday Party Watercolor Demonstration by Ritvik Sharma

Our tradition at the December Holiday Meeting is to have a presentation by a BAA member artist. This year Ritvik Sharma will present a watercolor demonstration. Ritvik is an Albany based artist who specializes in scenes from around the capital district. Although he considers himself a self taught artist, he has studied with Alvaro Castagnet, Charles Reid and Vladislav Yelislav.

To view Ritvik's work visit his website.

LITTLE WHITE: THE FERAL CAT WHO FOUND A HOME is now on sale in e-book, hardcover, and paperback. Please spread the word to anyone who would enjoy this children's book, targeted to ages 3-8 but enjoyable for anyone. The book was illustrated by the talented Laurel McKinstry Petersen and published by Writer's Coffee Bar Press, a hybrid press out of New Jersey run by MaryChris Bradley that has been absolutely wonderful. I am donating a portion of the proceeds to animal rescue organizations.

My photograph "Dreamscape" will be on display in the Juried Student Art Show at Arlene's Atelier the month of November. Opening reception is November 1st from 5:30-7:30pm.

I am now in a second gallery in Ireland. For about five years I have had paintings in the Ardmore Gallery in the village of Ardmore in County Waterford. Several pieces have sold from that gallery.

On a trip there in September I was invited to hang some pieces in Half Light Gallery in the city of Midleton, County Cork. I now have one piece there and will send more soon. Both galleries are owned by extremely talented artists, and I'm honored to have been invited to show with them.

Mary Beth and I have made several trips to Ireland. Art and artists have always been an important part of our experience there. That interaction and presence in the two galleries gives me a wonderful connection to the vibrant art community in a country that we love so much!

Peg holds a Master of Science degree in Art Education from the College of St. Rose and a Bachelor of Science degree in Fine Arts from Nazareth College in Rochester. She is the recipient of a Surdna Foundation Fellowship and has studied art at Penland School of Crafts in North Carolina. Peg has taught and created art for the past forty years in both private and public school and most recently in the International Baccalaureate High School in Schenectady. She has also curated the Schenectady City School Districts Butzel Art Gallery and is presently co-director of the Oakroom Artists.

Peg's work draws from the quilt maker's process of fragmenting, layering and restructuring, a process, which mirrors life. Her work reflects this notion and is inspired by what she sees and senses from the gardens we grow to the walls and lives we construct.

Meeting Recaps

September Meeting

Photography with Francis X. Driscoll

Our first presenter of the new season was Catskill photographer Francis X. Driscoll who spoke to us about achieving compositions. He discussed discerning light and subject matter. Fran left us all with a greater appreciation of photography as art and discerning the artistic eye. If you missed the meeting you can find out more about his work on his website <http://www.francisxdriscoll.com>

October Meeting

Mixed Media: 50 Years of Collaging with Peg Foley

Peg Foley did a fantastic demonstration of her unique mixed media collaging. She guided members through a short work exercise that encouraged feeling the design and materials. Some wonderful combinations and patterns were encouraged as everyone explored their out of the box thinking as their artistic boundaries were stretched and reimaged.

Fall Show

Entry Date: Friday Nov. 2, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
